Property Feature points

The newly refurbished Hotel Rottnest is situated on the waters of Thompson Bay. Hotel Rottnest has been reborn out of the renowned Quokka Arms Hotel. A favourite for generations of Western Australians, the Hotel has had a generational change that sees it re-open as one of the premier venues in Australia.

Business Description

Spectacular views, fabulous food, and uncomplicated service, now complete this iconic venue. Allow Hotel Rottnest to complete your Rottnest Island experience.

From Governor's Cottage, to the jewel in the crown.....

Construction of the original building began in 1859, and was completed by 1864, serving as the summer residence of WA's Governor's until 1912. Planning for Governor's Cottage to become accommodation facilities began in 1913, and opened in 1917. At this time the Rottnest Island Board of Control was created, and the island was opened to tourism.

In 1953 the building was converted into the Rottnest Hotel. Until 2000 the hotel was operated privately, with a succession of licensees. The hotel lease returned to the Rottnest Island Authority in 2000 and was officially renamed the 'Quokka Arms' by Minister for Tourism, Mr Bob Kucera on October 2, 2004.

In November 2007 Garrett Hospitality was granted the lease to operate the Quokka Arms. In May 2008 we began the first stage of the historic hotel's transformation. The original central building is being restored, the main bar and kitchen has been completely rebuilt, the courtyard landscaped with a new island bar added, and the accommodation totally refurbished.

Hotel Rottnest's 18 rooms have a fresh new feel, and modern décor. Located at the south end of the venue the rooms are just a stones through from the majestic Thompson Bay. The property boasts 4 bayside rooms with their own private courtyard only metres from the ocean. The remainder of the rooms are courtyardside rooms which open onto a secluded courtyard that is reserved exclusively for hotel guests. All rooms are designed to sleep two in either twin single beds or a queen bed. Each room is equipped with a plasma TV, mini bar, tea and coffee facilities and are serviced daily.
